Warrenpoint is situated approximately 8 miles east of Newry and around 50 miles south of Belfast, making it an important hub in the region. With a population of around 6,000 people, Warrenpoint is a predominantly residential town, attracting both locals and visitors drawn to its scenic views and proximity to outdoor activities in the Mournes.

The Republic of Ireland sits just 500 meters southeast of Warrenpoint across Narrow Water. The Republic of Ireland is currently accessed by road, which is circa 11 miles, however the Narrow Water Bridge is currently under construction and following completion, will reduce the distance to around 1 mile.

Warrenpoint town Centre offers a range of local amenities which include shops, bars, restaurants and cafes. Community attractions include the town Centre, Mourne Golf Club, Warrenpoint Marina and the nearby Mourne mountains for leisure activities.

DESCRIPTION

The former Warrenpoint Police Station closed to the public in 2014, then closed officially around 2018.

The station sits on a flat, reasonably square shaped site of circa 0.6 acres in the town centre. The land is currently laid in tarmac and is well secured and bounded by walling and fencing.

The former PSNI station sits in the centre of the land and comprises a large, two-story building. The building is circa 30 years old and was purpose built as a police station.

There is an NIE substation on the western boundary of the land, with a wayleave over the land to access this. We understand that the substation must remain and a Right of Way to access this is in place.

We are also aware of a memorial plaque on the external southern boundary wall which must remain.

Both the NIE substation and the memorial plaque are outlined in green in the aerial photo to the left.
